

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

riage, compel us to expunge this Appendix entirely. The John Goodwin who married Mary Elliot could not have been this Robert's son, but was perhaps a son of Mathew; and Robert, who married Anne, was himself the patron of a school in 1711, and was the father of the Robert, born in 1703, instead of being the grandfather of that Robert, as supposed in this Appendix.

---

NOTES.

All the data contributed by Dr. Tyler in the 1897 Supplement can be applied to the various members of the family, except his notes at bottom of Page 153.

“John Goodwin, orphan of Peter

“Goodwin, in account with John

“Goodwin his Guardian, mentions

“suit vs. my brother, James Goodwin.”

1748.

I can find no Peter Goodwin having children, John and James, except Peter, son of Major James, entirely too old to answer the requirements here. If John was settling with his guardian in 1748, then John's birth must have been around 1727, and his father Peter was born evidently around 1705, and was a grandson of Major James. I cannot find any Peter of that age, and have shown Peter as a probable son of Mathew on page 4.